

Proclamation

WHEREAS, Bob and Elaine Kukuwich started farming together after they were married in 1970; and

WHEREAS, Bob and Elaine have been a vendor at the Brookfield Farmers' Market for 25 years; and

WHEREAS, their daughters Wendee, Amy, and Traci helped at the Market from time to time. When Traci was 9 years old, she started coming to the Farmer's Market with Elaine to understand "why we need to learn math." As an adult, Traci is a top salesperson; and

WHEREAS, Elaine would arrive at the market with her big white Cadillac's trunk and back seat filled with vegetables. She and her daughters would set up a card table to sell their produce. Bob had been attending other markets while Elaine sold at Brookfield, but in 1999 he gave up the other markets and came solely to the Brookfield Farmers' Market; and

WHEREAS, customers line up weekly to buy their honey sweet carrots, patty pan squash, delicious green beans, beets, Celebrity tomatoes, broccoli, kale, and Swiss chard from Bob and Elaine; and

WHEREAS, all of Bob and Elaine's produce is pesticide free.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Steven V. Ponto, Mayor of the City of Brookfield, do hereby commend Bob and Elaine Kukuwich for their dedication to farming and producing quality produce, and their participation as a vendor in the Brookfield's Farmers' Market for 25 years.

Signed and sealed this 25th day of July,
in the year Two Thousand and Fifteen.

Steven V. Ponto, MAYOR
City of Brookfield
